Read the story starter. Continue the story (if you can on Google Docs).
This week we will be doing a project called 'Express yourself'. I would love to see your work so if you can please send a picture of what you have done (you can do this through Google Classroom or through email).
Monday Express yourself through feelings. Make an emotions mind map. You can use drawings, colours, words to make your mind map – see the examples for some ideas.	Tuesday Express yourself through your facial expressions. Make some emotions cards or a piece of art showing what faces look like when they feel a certain way. Look at the examples to help you.	Wednesday Express yourself through poetry. Read the poem, write your own poem about how you express your emotions.	Thursday Expressing yourself through art work. There is no set template for this but there are some examples to look at if you are stuck for ideas.	Friday Create your own mindfulness colouring sheet. These should be made up of lots of small sections. See the examples for some ideas. You can colour them in when you have finished, if you like.
I have set up a class account on this website https://www.oxfordowl.co.uk/ Click the pink box 'My class login' Username: maple year 5 * Please note there must be a space between each word * Password: MrsR * Please note you will need a capital M and R (as shown) * Go to My eBooks > set the age to 7-9 > choose a book to read > answer the questions at the start and end of the book. Please watch the tutorial video (uploaded to Google Classroom) if you need some extra help.
I have also set timetables on TTRockstars for you. It is really important that we have good timetable knowledge as we will be covering the multiplication and division math topic this half term. Especially the new timetables (6, 7 and 9)
